Verified key content

- 2025 consumer spending on wine: "more than $115 billion"; market value rose 3% while "total market volume declined for another consecutive year."
- Adam Beak: "Higher prices are keeping overall market value elevated, but they're masking a structural slide in consumption."
- DTC: "Winery shipments fell 15% in volume to 5.4 million cases, while shipment value declined 6% to $3.7 billion."
- "71% of wineries surveyed expect the U.S. wine industry to stabilize or rebound within the next three years."
